three will make delicious eating if properly prepared.

The round steak has the least waste, and if steaks are taken from the first three cuts they should be tender and juicy, provided they are cut sufficiently thick and are properly cooked.

The rump steak is fully as tender and palatable as loin, and it contains about one-third less waste. The sirioin is the choicest cut in the whole carcass and it contains a proportionately large amount of waste.

The silvion is the choicest cut in the whole carcass and it contains a proportionately large amount of waste.

Have the butcher cut the round steak one-half inch thick and then spound it with a meat ax to break the tough tissues. Place on a platter and brush with salad oil and it stand for half an hour. Now broil in the usual manner, turning every four minutes. Lift to a hot platter and spread with choice meat butters given below.

Rump steak should be cut two inches thick and the bone and fat trimmed. Now nick and score the edge of the fat and brush with salad oil and then broil two inches thick. Have the butcher remove the chin bone and the flank end. Let him add a piece of suet to the flank with the sirloin. Brush the steak with salad oil and then broil. Lift to a hot platter.

Place one pint of water and one tablespoon salt-in-the-bottom of the broiling pan to prevent the fat drippings from taking fire. Turn the meat when broiling press with a knife. If it is soft and spongy it is raw. Watch carefully and when just beginning to become firm it is rare. Allow four minutes for medium and six minutes for well done.

for the purpose of selling whisky to the annoyance of the public and disturbance of the peace." Action of the resolution was unanimous.

Many Complaints.

Council's committee acted fol-lowing complaints from numerous sources to the effect that Jack's Place, on West Alabama street, was conducted solely for the sale of contraband liquor, and interested persons pointed out that the so-called near beer saloon was a regular rendeavous for criminals and loafers.

They also charged that a number of fights which in the recent past have nearly resulted in fatalities have occurred in and about the place, and sentiment against the place was widespread and heated. It was declared that a lady could not pass in front of the place for fear of being subjected to insult.

The place has always had a bad record, it was stated, and those interested in securing revocation of the license expressed hope that it will remain permanently closed as a near beer saloon.

The statement declares the administration's program to ald the railroads was based on "the railroads relinquishing their so-called 'labor inefficiency claims,' and undertaking to inaugurate reductions in export grain rates, while the administration undertook to assist them by securing early settlement of their claims against the government."

"These reductions in rates," the statement continued, "with the arrangements for financial assistance to export trade and the assurance that Europe is going to need extraordinary quantities of American foodstuffs, constitute altogether a justification for strong hope that the tendency in the agricultural markets will for some time be decidedly toward better prices."

Attorney Hooper's report to Judge Humphries and the grand jury follows:

Having been designated by your honor to act as solicitor-general pro tem. touching the sworn charges submitted by Aidine Chambers, Esq., on August 2, 1921, charging Hon. John A. Boykin, solicitor-general of the Atlanta circuit, with the commission of three certain felonies and one misde-geanor, I beg to report as follows:

I find the three charges for the commission of felonies set forth transactions in which relies nist upon bond forfeitures had been taken and shortly afterwards the securities had paid amounts less than the face of the bonds to the solicitor-general and received from him receipts purporting to release them against further liability, as if upon the receipt in full for the amount of said bond. No rules absolute were taken and these cases stand in that condition at the present time. These efforts to settle were had without any order from the court authorizing any compromise under said bonds. It is claimed by Mr. Chambers that these facts constitute a violation of section 284 of the penal code. In order to properly construct his section, which is condified from section 167, page 808, of Cobb's Digest of the State Laws of Georgia, being the penal code as adopted by the legislature of 1833, it is necessary to consider the original section, which reads as follows:

BY CLARK HOWELL, JR.

Washington, August 12 .- (By Conorganizations have, since the passage of the anti-trust laws, sage of the anti-trust laws, been embarrassed because of the indefiniteness of those laws and the uncertainty of their application.

During the first administration of President Wilson, on his recommendation, the federal trade commission was created in the nature of an advisory board to business. After the passage of that law, President Wilson announced that the interrogation points heretofore disturbing business had been removed. The federal trade commission has not however, functioned generally along the lines of an advisory commission and there has remained doubt among business men as to their rights.

Questions By Greeers.

Questions By Grocers,

Questions By Grocers.

The Southern Wholesale Grocers' association, an association of wholesale grocers with over two thousand members doing business in practically every state in the union, on the 22d of June, propounded a series of questions to the federal trade commission and announced the theory that it believed "that the commission was authorized to hold conferences with business and to aid business in arriving at a higher degree of certainty as to its legal rights." The federal trade commission, upon receipt of that request, gave it careful consideration, modified its former practices, and gave a full answer to the questions propounded by the Southern Wholesale Grocers' association.

The questions propounded related principally to the right of associations of business men to argue in favor of a particular method of doing business. Nine questions were asked, but fundamentally they were all similar. The first question reads:

Protecting Trade Channels.

Protecting Trade Channels.

"It is believed that fair competition is promoted by protecting legitimate trade channels and that manufacturers should in the promotion of the general interest, seli only to wholesalers to the end that wholesalers may supply the needs of retailers. Those manufacturers who attempt to seli the retail trade discriminate in favor of some against others, while the wholesaley selects without discrimination, except as to the credit risk, all retail grocers through whom to distribute. These being economic questions, is there objection, legal or sconomic, to an association such as the Southern Wholesale Grocers' association presenting arguments to manufacturers in favor of the methods of distribution herein described?"

This and similar questions have been fully answered by the commission.

To the first question the commis-To the first question the commission answered:

"It is our opinion that the association may present to manufacturers fair and reasonable argument in support of its position on the propositions stated. The rule is clearly stated in United States vs. Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association, 207 Fed. 424, 443."

Following this answer the commission discusses at length legal principles.

Second Pertinent Question.

Second Pertinent Question.

The second question asked by the association of the commission was:

"It is believed that a buying agency, although in the form of a wholesale organization, is not really a wholesaler, nor is it entitled to be classed as a wholesaler, and to treat such organization as wholesalers discriminates against retailers who are not members of such combination. Is there any objection to this association arguing in favor of this position by writing letters to manufacturers with whom the members of the association deal?"

The answer of the Federal Trade commission is in part:

"There is no legal objection to fair and proper argument in support of your contention. The argument and the subsequent conduct of the association and of its members as well, will always be open to scrutiny, however, to determine whether the lawful boundaries have been passed."

The importance of these questions and answers to business is that the intervers of the Federal Notwithstanding the investigation of detectives it is by no means sure that Edgar met his death from being struck by an automobile, say the police. They continue to follow every clew likely to furnish a solution to the mystery.

The law regulating the terms of the school commissioners was investigated by Mayor Key and President Gaines, with the result that they decided his term ends this year. The general opinion had prevailed that Mr. Fleming's term was three years and did not expire until December 31, 1922.

It was stated at Mr. Fleming's office Friday that he is away on vacation and will not return until next Monday night, which will be too late to pay his entrance fee and qualify to succeed himself, unless he should wire his fee.

Retail merchants from all sections of the Southeast will be invited to the Atlanta market during the period. Mr. Ragan has announced that a splendid program will be worked out, both in regard to business and entertainment of the guests.

Merchants' week is somewhat simulation of trade and betterment of commercial conditions in the markets for purchases and sales. It has been stated that visiting merchants will be offered many bargains, and that Atlanta will try to outdo in popularity and attractiveness the magnificent display at present being given by the city of Baltimore.

"In my opinion," said Mr. Ragan, "merchants everywhere, and especially throughout the south, will use the utmost conservatism in buying this fall. An attractive display by Atlanta stores and manufacturers, with reasonable prices, will undoubtedly serve as a great drawing card for Atlanta stocks."

Eligibility of Son Of Council Member To Job Questioned

Council will be asked by the health committee to decide the eligibility of Ralph E. Jackson, son of Councilman Jackson, for the position of third assistant plumbing inspector, to be assigned as book-keeper for Chief Beach's office.

Warm discussion was started at the meeting when a portion of the city reguluations governing the election of relatives of councilmen and another provision providing that the applicant for the third assistant inspectorship must have five years' experience as a plumber were read by Councilman Lyle, but not until after the election was held. He gave as his reason then for finally bringing up the regulation as being that he was opposed to election of Councilman Jackson's son. Three other applications were read. Chief Beach wants a man for office work, but who will have the title of third assistant inspector to conform with the provisions of the appropriations bill for the department.

The matter was disposed of by announcing Jackson elected after he raceived a majority of the votes, with the question of his eligibility left to council.

It is to explain and analyze the pension laws of Georgia and to clear up these confusions by state nents of facts that I write.

This situation continued until 1908 when the pension laws were amended to include all soldiers and the widows of all soldiers who were maimed prior to 1870, provided they were worth less than $1,500. The pension remained uniform at $60 a year, and the proper ty qualification as stated made 'eligible" only those soldiers and widows worth less than $1,500.

At that time the rolls reached over 15,000, and reached the high water mark of 19,972 in 1912. The yearly disbursements ran around $1,000,000, reaching $1,170,334.20 in 1912, the highest year under that missioner to the governor, follow

And Thus old n. p. became popular, And now this fancy of exclusiveness—and such fancies do prevail regarding diseases—has fastened itself upon neuritis, and victims of all kinds of aches and pains of an indefinite character are delighted and flattered when some healer or nearhealer calls the trouble neuritis.

Please do not misunderstand me victims of neuritis. I am not trying to place you in the category with and the importers report that it is victims of rheumatism and victims the best cargo of building brick of catarrh. Far be it from me to imply that there is nothing the matter with a neuritls subject, or with the victim of rheumatiz or the victim of catarrh, for that matter. I merely emphasize the fact that, whereas the diagnosis of "rheumatism" is a bad guess in 97.8 per cent of the cases, and that of "catarrh" is a bad guess in 100 per cent of the cases, the diagnosis of neuritis is a mistake in only about 75 per cent of the cases. There is nothing I can say to correspondents who ask me to suggest something god for neuritis. I am quite as much at a loss to do that as I would be to suggest something good for a run-down condition, an indefinite ache or pain, or a tired business man. The mere word indefinite ache or pain, or a tired business man. The mere word neuritis conveys no tangible idea of the nature of the trouble. Too many easy-going folk have learned to call every ache or pain, which formerly passed as neuralgia (nerve ache), by the more classy, up-to-date and impressive name of neuritis—keeping always in the back of the mind a hazy notion that it is somehow related with rheumatism—which it is, both terms being meaningless as popularly employed. If he stops to chat with a theatrical producer he has succumbed to the lure of gold. He has been bought." Just now a scurrilous charge is being whispered. A group of dramatic critics held stock in two plays by a former critic who turned producer and as a result the plays received superlative publicity.

It so happens that the group lunches several times a week in the public dining room of a theatrical hotel, in the West Fortles. They are old friends and several other members of the literati join them. The luncheons serve as means of relaxation and serious talk is barred. Calvin's Secret Grave.

(From The New York Post.)
John Calvin died at Geneva May 27, 1564, leaving, apart from his work as a reformer, a host of enemies. Fearing lest some of these might do violence to his body, he was buried secretly in the Plain Palais cemetery. One watchman after another through succeeding generations has taken visitors to a simple stone erected at the foot of a pine tree and bearing the inscription
"J. C.," remarking as he did so,
"Here in the neighborhood somewhere M. Calvin was buried. No one knows the exact spot."
And this was true—with one exception. In order to keep his burial place a secret, particularly after the death of Servet, its location was intrusted to no one except the De Speyr family in Basel. Not even the Geneva consistory was informed on the subject. The De Sneyrs were to (From The New York Post.)

The last member of the family, Eugene de Speyr, aged 71, is childless. He wrote recently from Avignen to the consistory at Geneva stating that it would be well, in view of his advanced age, to divulge all that is known. He was accordingly invited to come to Geneva and resert.

invited to come to Geneva and report.

With the aid of the original plans of the cemetery he was able to point out Calvin's exact resting place. Despite an expressed desire that he be buried without ceremony and with only the least pretentious stone, exhumation is to be undertaken immediately, preparatory to re-interring the remains with great ceremony and pomp. It is expected that they will be able to find his skull, finger-ring and probably parts of his Bible containing his own notations.

"No Accident Week," and the many headlines telling of the serious or your part toward obtaining the proper laws, or the proper enforcement of those that exist, which would tend to eliminate the dangers as outlined above will be greatly appreciated by the many automobile owners in Atlanta and the state of Georgie.

The Traffic Laws Cover All This-Simply Not Enforced

Editor Constitution: In the interest of "safetly first" it strikes me very forcibly, since I have only recently come from New York, that a particular point has been overlooked in the city ordinances and state laws, or if such laws exist, that the enforcement of them is sadly neglected, to wit, headlight To drive on the streets of Atlanta and the main highways leading into the city after dark is of greatest danger, due to the glare of the headlights and unnecessary use of spot lights on the many moving vehicles. The states in that section have gone so far as to specify the various makes

In looking over the city ordinance regarding vehicular traffic, as compiled and published by City Clerk Walter C. There was a genuine ring of enthusiasm to the shouts of greeting from thousands of persons who gathered outside the station where the Americans arrived this afternoon from Cherbourg. Jusserand and many regiments with which the Americans had fought in the war and committees of French veterans were present at the ceremonies here.

Major John G. Emery, national commander of the American Legion, who heads the American delegation, placed a silk flag and wreath of popples, entwined with French flags on the tomb of the unknown soldier saying: "My comrade, we greet you, not only as a soldier of France, but as our solder. The agreement, which probably will be signed at the next session of the negoitators, which is scheduled for 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning, calls for the soviet's absolute guarantee of the utmost protection for the food and personnel of the relief agencies operating in Russia. M. Litvinoff made this explanation of the Russian negotiations with the American relief administration in talking with the American newspaper correspondents. He reviewed the famine situation to them and explained the situation from the Russian viewpoint.

In addition to those held in prison in Russia, declared the soviet envoy, every facility to leave would be given by the soviet government to any Americans in the country, even to the extent of advertising for them in the newspapers. Obviously the government could not undertake to locate them all, however, he added, as even the list the American government has prepared was probably inaccurate, and in many cases the names bore no addresses.

Barons Stage Ninth-Frame Rally And Win Third Battle of Series

Opportunity, Shunned by with two singles and a double Locals, Shifts Allegiance and Gets a Splendid ReStewart, 2b. ...
Emery, cf.

BY CLIFF WHEATLEY. Old Man Opportunity, peeved at our Crackers because they refused to take him seriously, shifted his allegiance to the Baronial pastimers yesterday and the third game of the series went to the Birmingham forces, 4 to 3.

The aged gentleman clamored frantically at the front door of the ocal players in the fifth inning, that the time was ripe to lay the ball game along with the family steak in the coldest section of the refrigerator, but the Crackers paid no heed. The old man came back in the eighth and his constant ringing of the bell brought one lone player to the door, and but a single run came where a flock should nave resulted. Opportunity then left a note telling the Frankmen to take a hop, skip and jump to blue blazes so far as he was concerned, and started toward Cariton Molesworth's residence.

Better Reception.

Here a grand reception awaited hat the time was ripe to lay the

Better Reception,

Here a grand reception awaited him. Hearing the latch at the gate click as Opportunity entered the front yard in the ninth inning. Dutch Bernsen—robbed earlier in Sammy Mayer's spectacular catch—rished to the door and was given authority by this fine old man to knock the "kivver" off the ball. He laid one where even Mr. Mayer strays seldom—on the right field dump near the score board, and was at third before the pellet could be relayed.

was at third before the pellet could be relayed.

Manager Molesworth then brought Opportunity a fine drink of the delectable fluid that leaks down from the mountain sides of this section and Mr. O. was so elated over the prospect that he passed the word on to Taylor to tie up he battle and a single to left followed, enabling Bernsen to romphome with the tally that knotted the count. Colonel Opportunity was laughing with ghoulish glee at the horror written on the Crackers' faces as they gazed across the street at the scene of gladness in Mr. Molesworth's residence, and when the signal was slipped to Pug Allen to double to right, resulting in the winning run, nine Crackers fell out of the window and "Wa'll Blill" Rariden, first to recover, said all that was necessary for the post mortem, "Wa'll, I'll be derned."

Suggs Is the Loser.

That's the story of how the Crackers took theirs yesterday. John Left-handed Suggs being on the receiving end of the hot stuff that the Barons shat in his direction, while one Mr. Wheeler, who flingeth a baseball via his right finn, was the gentleman that chuckled over the queer twist the game took in the ninth frame.

Mr. Wheeler wasn't given much of a chance to laugh during the greater portion of the matine, as Cracker bingles tore by him in an unending procession most of the afternoon. But Brother Wheeler had the last ha-ha, which after all is served at these baseball feasts.

Inability to hit in the pinches, the reader has unquestionably surmised by this time, spelled destruction for the local outfit. The team was hitting hard enough and Suggs was pitching good enough to have won the average struggle, but when Opportunity leaves a note telling the boys that their names are mud—well, the game simply is meant to be lost.

Three Times Clogged.

Out of three times that the bases were fuller than the old toper draped around the lamp posts in the cartoons of a gone, but wetter age, the Crackers yanked just one tally, which in the pinch hitting line certainly wins the beautiful hand-embroidered marble Persian shawl. Eight of the local players were left stranded on the paths, while only four of the Baroford, gave up only six hits and paths, while only four of the Baronal pastimers were forced to wiew the last out from one of the outposts.

Perhaps the good fielding displayed by both clubs helped to keep the scoring down—certainly the property of the pr the last out from one of the outposts.

Perhaps the good fielding displayed by both clubs helped to keep the scoring down—certainly the statement is true in accounting for the few tallies scored by the Barons. The prettiest catch of the afternoon, and the prettiest that the writer has seen in a short but fairly active career in trailing baseball happenings, was made by Sammy Mayer in the seventh inning, when he pulled down "Dutch" Bernsen's drive to center. This ball that "Dutch" hit wasn't just labelled a circuit clout—you could see it written all over the pellet as it sailed far into Mayer's territory.

Sammy started running back as Bernsen connected, but even the fleet Samuel would have been left far behind had he trusted to speed alone. He stayed well up in the race for an instant, but played a forlorn hunch as the ball sailed lover, threw up his gloved hand as he jumped and the apple stuck. Sammy raced twenty yards before he could bring himself to a halt and the could bring himself to a halt and the could bring himself to a halt and the could bring himself.

How They Scored.

How They Scored.

Mr. Wheeler got rid of most of his poor pitching in the first inning, when the Crackers scored two runs. Joe Guyon started it with a clean single to left and reached second on Ritter's drive down the third base line; Mayer was an infield out and both runners advanced. Wingo raised a sacrifice fly to Allen. Guyon scoring; Kauffman singled to right and Ritter checked in at the home station.

The locals were unable to hold this lead as the Barons started a feroclous attack in the second. Bernsen singled over the hurling mound and scored on Silva's triple to left center; Allen hit to Ritter and Silva scored when Arthur mussed up the offering.

The Crackers untied the affair in the eighth. Mayer singled to center, but was forced at second by Wingo. Kauffman singled through short, and Wingo halted at second how wingo halted at second and Wingo scored. Rariden at tempting a squeeze play bunted to Wheeler and Kauffman was caught at the plate; Gooch threw to Bernsen to head off Rariden, and Bill heat the throw, but a quick return to the platter caught Graff.

The story of the Barons' ninth has already been told. Joe Guyon led the hitters for the afternoon.

Disloyal Fans Taken to Task

A new sort of thing is happening at Ponce de Leon and the writer doesn't wonder that the loyal fans of the city are up in arms against the bugs that throw their allegiance to the opposition at the first signs of faltering displayed by the Crackers.

We have at hand a communication from Harvey Weatherly, one of the real fans and a daily customer at Mr. Spiller's ball orchard. One glance at Mr. Weatherly's letter will be are out our assertion that he is one of baseball's noblemen, and for that reason the communication in its entirety will be reproduced.

"Sporting Editor: Sometimes we all like to go and see a good game of baseball, but the loyal fans of Atlanta will agree with me that they go to see a ball game and help their own team to win. However we are getting mighty bad here in Atlanta in what we call hammer knockers, who go out to Ponce de Leon to see how much they can knock our own players and root for the other side.

"It hink it is about time they were laying their hammers aside and be sports and applaud our own boys and encourage them instead of discouraging them. I have had numcheer a picture of Bill Hohenzollern."

Mayor James L. Key promised six hundred East Atlantans, last night at a community gathering in the East Atlanta park, that every effort will be exerted by him to give that community a park, equipped with all the features found in any park in the city.

"Some time this year the golf links of the city stockade will be ready and later the building which has hindered the development of this section, will be turned into a school, thereby proving a great help." declared the mayor.

Hubert F. Lee, chairman of entertainment and recreation committee, was introduced by Julian V. Boehm, president of the Civitan club, as a man who will be heard from in the years to come. In his talk Mr. Lee told of the "suspense of not knowing whether or not the meeting would be a failure or a glorious success, and compared it with the first hundred feet of a parachute jumper's leap—the uncertainty was fine for graying hair prematurely."

"Thousands of successful business men were questioned last year regarding the age at which the crisis of their life came: the unanimous reply was "between 14 and 18." Therefore teach teamwork and fair play to youths of that age, and they will practice it years later." declared the basis of the commence. Stressed the

Boehm Raps Police.

A number of short talks were made. Julian V. Boehm, president of the Civitan club, who presided took occasion to rap the police and detective departments for "laxity of duty" in failure to properly enforce the traffic laws of the city. His remarks were brought about by discussion of the Civitan's interest in the "safety-first" campaign being waged this week.

"Police records show an average of six arrests daily for traffic infractions," said Mr. Boehm. "This is not enough, and this fact is generally known to all law abiding Atlantans. I can stand on five points corner one hour, and observe at least twenty or thirty cases of traffic violations. Yet police apparently take no hand.

"A safey-first campaign cannot be waged without the co-ordinated efforts of the entire populace coupled with assistance of police," he added.

But in grains, whose domestic price is dominated by the foreign price of the exported surplus, the producer suffers when rates go up and benefits when they go down. Therefore, though the exports represent a minor share of the total grain production, the lowering of export rates affects the entire crop. These reduction of rates, together with the arrangements for financial assistance to export trade and the assurance that Europe is going to need any quantities of American foodstuffs, constitute altogether a justification for strong hope that the tendency in the agricultural markets will for some time be decidedly toward better prices."

form a motion was adopted by the board.

When the meeting was called to order, Chairman Vaughn called on members of the Junior Chamber to state their wishes. This was done by Roy LeCraw, Henry Robinson, and several others. They declared that they had received the heartiest sort of co-operation from Chief Beavers and his entire force and declared that Judge Johnson had assured them that he would put the severest possible penalties on all violators.

"As immediate remedies," said Mr.
LeCraw, "we are asking for these things. First, we want more cases made against violators and want the fines made larger. Secondly, we want pedestrian alleys drawn across PUBLIC CHARGED made against violators and want the fines made larger. Secondly, we want pedestrian alleys drawn across the downtown streets and pedestrians confined to these alleys. Third, we want a flying squadron of police to be scattered out through the residence sections to be on the alert for speeders."

During the discussion, which was open and informal, plan after plan was suggested. Chairman Vaughn stated that the flying squadron could doubtless do good work, but there is no money available for extra policemen. Civilian policemen were declared unsatisfactory to both police and civilians. Newspapers were urged to carry a list of the offenders fined each day and the amount of the fines imposed.

During the discussion of ways and means of correcting traffic evils, Henry Robinson, who had just returned to the room with evident embarrassment, declared: "I've got a confession to make. We've been talking here about stirring up civic consciousness to where all of us would regard carelessness as a crime and obedience to the laws a paramount necessity. I came down here to help in this work and someone mentioned that no one is observing the ordinance which provides that tail lights of standing cars shall be kept lighted. That caused me to think about something and I've just come back from turning on my light. While there, I counted thirty three cars parked about the police station and only one of them had their tail lights on.

"That's just it," said Chief Beavers. "And the only way you can awaken some people is to pile on a fine they won't forget or leave them to cool off their desire for speeding during 2 ten-day jail sentence. That will make them remember laws."

At the conclusion of the discussion, the resolutions carrying the present plan of procedure against traffic violators were introduced by Commissioners Sheffield and King.

Sellers of Stocks Balked When Prices Go Upward

New York, August 12.—Stocks opened a little higher this morning, sold off, rallied and then trading came to a halt, waiting for the statement which J. P. Morgan & Co. were expected to make to the effect that the situation growing out of the new developments in the Mer-cantile Bank of America had been satisfactorily cleaned up. During the day, from time to time, there was considerable short covering, despite the flood of disturbing rumors circulated throughout the financial district. These rumors were checked up by your correspondent in absolutely reliable quarters, and the conclusion was drawn that when it es necessary for traders who are working for lower prices to circulate stories that are not true it is time to look for something good to buy instead of picking out stocks to sell short.

This is not saying that the time has arrived when stocks can be bought with eyes closed. It is possible that in taking care of the situation that developed this week out of the "frozen" credits connected with some financing of foreign trade those in charge will at the first favorable opportunity let go of some of the stuff thus taken over. What is meant is that the situation which developed here this week was greatly overdone by traders playing for lower prices, and that such tactics, are conclusive evidence of the weakness of the market position of those employing them. Under such market conditions the time has arrived when the right kind of securities can be accumulated.

Good investment Buying.

That there is good investment buying going on, even in the face of this week's flood of disturbing rumors, is evident from the way the right kind of new securities are going. Today the Chase Securities corporation, handling the offering of the $10,000,000 25-year 5½ bonds of the Philippine government, announced that all of the bonds had been quickly sold and the books closed. Yesterday's offering of $15,000,000 estern Union bonds was oversubscribed three times.

Today's weekly statement of the federal reserve system shows the strongest position since March 1 of 1918, the reserve ratio being at 65.0 against 63.7 a week ago and 43.9 at this time last year. That statement in itself is sufficient evidence that the trouble that everybody was afraid of is behind instead of ahead of us. Here is the reserve ratio of the individual banks:

Anthracite Shipments.

Anthracite shipments by the anthracite roads for the month of July amounted to 5,462,760 gross tons against 6,031,937 for June of this year and 6,389,100 for July of last year. The loss for June was in pea and steam sizes. Considering that general trade was at its lowest mark last month, it is surprising that the falling off was not larger. In many directions signs are appearing that July will prove the worst month of the year in general trade. That August will show an improvement, and that this improvement will continue.

It was learned today that accumulated stocks of merchandise South America and the Far East are passing into consumption. In the Argentine republic there is still an accumulation of slow-moving lines, such as textiles, but machinery and other goods classed as semi-essentials are finding a ready sale. "This does not mean that we are getting cash for these goods," a Wall street man qualified to speak said today.
"But we are getting negotiable instruments of credit, which are more easily handled. I would not say by any means that we are going to get normal business at once, but the situation is better."

WEEKLY REVIEWS

New York, August 12.—The cotton market has been rather irregular since the advance to 13.97 for December deliveries toward the end of last week. The continued bullish character of crop and domestic goods trade advices has encouraged buying on reactions, but offerings have shown a tendency to increase on rallies and a disposition to take profits or liquidate long contracts has probably been stimulated by reports of an unsettled feeling in the stock market.

After selling off to 13.52 on Tuesday with broke to 13.36 on Thursday with broke to 13.36 on Thursday with today's price ranging between 13.55 and 13.78 compared with 13.85 at the close of the previous week. Part of the selling on advances has been attributed to renewed nervousness or uncertainty regarding the effect of the early new crop movement.

The recent hot weather has brought in many crop complaints from the southwest, but is also supposed to have hastened maturity and receipts of new cotton in that section are increasing. Aside from the southwest, but is also supposed to have hastened maturity and receipts of increased hedge selling on the bulges, created a feeling in some quarters that there is considered less unfavorable than defining the cotton for sale in the

BUSINESS OUTLOOK IMPROVES AS GOODS ARE SOLD FREELY

New York, August 12 .- Dun's to Business sentiment improves, but Readjustments in a number of im-

Readjustments in a number of important basic departments have made further progress and this is materially assisted by increasing resistance to a further lowering of values, notably in the cotton, woolen and silk goods divisions, in which prices are now apparently on a stable basis and in hides and leather which have benefited by a better demand from manufacturers. Advices from New England show a further resumption of activity in shoe manufacturing with some plants operating at full capacity, and production in others increasing. In other industrial centers a tendency to extend operations is noted and, though the improvement is slight, as is natural at the height of the vacation period, the feeling as regards prospects for fall and winter is decidedly more confident. Buying of iron and steel remains restricted, but some inquiries are resceived and the expectation is that the railroads must soon become liberal purchasers.

SPANISH CAVALRY HEROISM DESCRIBED

Madrid, August 12.—(By the Associated Press.)—Gallant action by cavalry under Colonel Primo-Rivera in protecting the retreat of a column of 400 men is described in La Libertad. The column was pressed by the enemy. The cavalry was ordered to charge and scattered the assailants, killing many of them, and enabling the column to retreat. The rebels, however, again attacked and the cavalry again charged. The battlefield was covered with the dead and dying of both sides, but the enemy was driven back.

The Spanish troops then entered a narrow pass, where other rebels awaited them on the heights. They expected the order to retreat, but instead came the order to charge a third time. Shouting "viva Espana" the cavalry again attacked, sacrificing themselves to save the column. None of the men hesitated, and when the third charge was finished, few of them remained.

Colonel Primo-Rivera by word and deed encouraged his men, and even ordered a fourth charge. The brave survivors spurred their horses against the enemy but their animals were so fatigued that they reached the rebel ranks at a walk. Here both men and horses were exterminated.

ROADS' COAL SUPPLY DECLARED SUFFICIENT

Washington, August 12.—Railroads of the country generally have sufficient reserve supplies of coal, and little immediate increases in purchases can be expected, according to replies made public today from the carriers to a letter by the interstate commerce commission, urging immediate purchases as a means of improving the depressed condition in the coal industry.

Some carriers declined to make purchases, informing the commission they needed their money for other purposes, while others indicated that they would make some increases in the size of their reserves.

New York, August 12 .- Selling of stocks was resumed today and for a time the decline made further headway. The movement was checked, howevere, before it attaind wide proportions, and in the late dealings the market stiffened, with the closing steady. Sales were 430,000 shares. As has been the case recently, pressure was directed against the industrials and the standard rails were comparatively steady. In the early decline Bethlehm steel, General Electric, Royal Dutch, Sears Roebuck and various other issues were marked down a point or more. The shorts apparently were none too sure of their position, however, and hesitated to press their advantage.

A tentative drive at the coppers and motors in the afternoon gave temporary results, but the last hour brought a moderate recovery. Rails, oils, equipments and shipping shares were in demand on the late rise in which there was considerable short covering. The movement was Influences governing the trend of speculation were changed in important particulars by the day's developments. The improvement in the action of the market, in comparison with vesterday's steady weakening, appeared to be due to nothing more than the stronger technical position, in consequence of recent selling.

Heaviness again predominated in the bond market, although several of the weak features of yesterday made recoveries. Central Leather 5s, Chile Coppe 6s, Mercantile Marine 6s, Central of Georgia 5s and Oregon Short Line refunding 4s declined 1 to 1 1-2 points. Chicago, August 12.—Bearish crop estimates from France and Canada tended somewhat to depress the wheat market today. Prices closed unsettled, 1-2 to 2c net lower. Corn lost 1-2@5-8 to 1c and oats 3-4 to 7-8@1c. In provisions the outcome varied from 40c decline to a rise of 2 1-2 cents.

having been steaded by commission house demand, based to a large extent on the assumption that sooner or later export business was develop in sufficient volume to absorb all the wheat surplus in this country and Canada. Confidence in this view, however, received an unexpected jolt from a statement by the French minister of agriculture putting the yield of wheat this season in France at 40,000,000 bushels above current trade figures, and asserting that foreign purchases had exceeded the country's requirements by 28,000,000 bushels. The Canadian crop was officially estimated at 288,000,000 bushels as against 263,-000,000 bushels harvested last year. Late reports from New York that England had bought 800,000 bushels failed to rally the market, and so, too, did announcement that exporters had taken 300,000 bushels here. Liberal country offerings weakened corn, December touching the lowest level yet this season.

Oats, like corn, lacked support. Provisions averaged lower as a result of scattered selling which more than counterbalanced the effect of higher quotations on hogs.

Sugar.

New York, August 12.—The raw sugar market continued quiet with no saies reported. Prices were unchanged, Cubas being quoted at 3½c, cost and freight, equal to 4.86 for centrifugal, while uncontrolled sugars were offered at the same equivalent. There was a continuation of yesterday's stiling movement in raw sugar futures and prices were easier again, closing at declines of 1 to 5 points. Europe was said to be selling the distant positions owing to more favorable crop prospects for beet sugars there, while there was also considerable Wall street and commission house liquidation. Closing bids: September 3.11, December 2.90, March 2.70, May 2.76.

The only change in 'refined was the announcement by a local refiner that he was again accepting business, shipment next week, at 6.05 for fine granulated, except soft sugars No. 9 to 15, which were quoted on the basis of 5.90. Other refiners were unchanged at 6 to 6.15, with only a moderate inquiry reported, while second-hand sugars were said to be available below refinery quotations.

New York, August 12.-Bullish crop advices caused rallies after an early decline in the cotton market today, but they were not fully maintained with the market closing steady, net 4 points higher to 25 points lower. The relative firmness of near months at the close was attributed to switching from them to later deliveries by holders of the of near months at the close was attributed to switching from them to later deliveries by holders of the local stock. December contracts sold off to 13.55 on the early break, rallied to 13.73 and closed at 13.63 compared with 13.65 at the close of yesterday.

The market opened steady at an advance of 3 points to a decline of 9 points and turned easy right after the call under a renewal of scattering ilquidation. Liverpool and Wall street selling, reports that the higher basis asked for spot cotton in the south had checked export demand for the Far East and continued complaints of a dull trade in Manchester contributed to the decline, which carried October off to 13.11 and January to 13.60, or about 10 to 12 points net lower. There was some trade buying around these figures, however, and the market rallied sharply on private reports that the crop indication had dropped from 8,203,000 bales on July 25 to about 7,400,000. Scattering complaints of crop deterioration were also received, which gave the market a pretty firm tone during the middle of the day, with October selling up to 13.35 and January to 13.83, or 11 to 12 points net higher. This advance seemed to bring in a little more hedge selling and the market later was quiet, with last prices showing reactions of 15 or 20 points from the best. The midday advance was encouraged by reports of continued activity in the domestic goods trade, and notwithstanding the complaints of poor trade from Manchester, forwardings of cotton from Liverpool for the week were 40,000 bales against 35.000 for the week previous. New Orleans reported increased hedge selling there on the early afternoon advance, accompanied by reports that new crop receipts were becoming heavier in south Texas. It was reported in ocean freight circles that inquiries were in the market for cotton room amounting to about 20,000 bales for shipment from New York and New England points, to Bremen.

SHOWS SMALL LOSS

New Orleans, August 12.—Unfavorable crop accounts kept the cotton market at small net advances during the greater part of today's session but around the opening and again on the close there were small net declines, so that the close was at net losses for the day of 2 to 7 points. Some little liquidation came from the long side, especially in the late trading.

Opening trades, were lower because of the unfavorable impression made by foreign political news of over night, but after declines of 6 to 12 points had been scored the inarket commenced to react on a private bureau report of 57 per cent as the condition of the growing crop, indicating a yield of but 7,400.000 bales. On this report combined with further complaints of shedding and premature opening of boils in Texas and very high temperatures in that state the market worked up to levels 13 to 16 points higher than the final quotations of yesterday. October rose to 12.94, as compared with 12.66, the lowest level in the early trading.

For a while the market held its steadiness, but those who bought on the initial decline commenced to let go and recessions came about, although bullish comment arose concerning mill takings for the week, which were 210.000 bales against 167,000 this week last year.

PROFESSIONAL VIEWS ON COTTON SITUATION

New York, August 12.—(Special.)—The storms predicted in the western beit only appeared along the western border and temperatures were again very high in Texas. Our advices from people whom we consider from past experience to be very reliable inform us that there is no question but that the crop in the western beit is deteriorating very rapidly. This feeling has already had a decided influence on the basis which continues to show steady improvement. Our market does not respond to these influences largely because our trade cannot believe the prospects are really as poor as the reports indicate. Nineven's toneral was predicted and preached many years before the city's death by Zephaniah in words which live today.

"This." he said. " is the joyous city that dwelt carelessly, that said in her heart, T am, and there is none besides me, how is she become a desolation, a place for beasts to lie down in! Every one that passeth by her shall hiss and wag his hand."

Only mounds of earth mark the place where Nineveh stood. The bark of the jackal and the fall of the archeologist's pick are the only sounds heard, where once thousands dodged vehicles in streets more crowded than Atlanta's. Those crowds with their merchant princes and rulers believed their city the greatest of all, and one that would live forever, always growing.

But the thinker, seeing the carelessness of the city's life, needed no supernatural knowledge to foretell the city's end. Solomon spoke only common sense in saying:

"He that is careless of his ways shall die."

And so today, Atlantans are called to do more than watch their steps when boarding and leaving a car, or crossing a crowded street. Carelessness here may cost a leg, an arm, or a life, but there is a carelessness to be guarded against, which may cause worse than maiming or death.

But this mirth, this song and laughter, however joyous they may be in sound, when heard in or around Atlanta today, contribute nothing to the happiness of the city life, but, on the contrary, the seeming joyousness so created, like the drunk driver, only discloses the carelessness in our midst, which has recently sent to his grave Deputy Sheriff Yarborough, the officer shot to death by a whisky runner fighting to fulfull the desires of these of our citizens who are so careless concerning law and order that they traffic with blind tigers, every one of whom is a potential murderer.

Six officers have the song and laughter, this song and laughter, this song and laughter, however joyous they may be in sound place to a grad hand.

Promoting Anarchy.

Anarchy unchecked means death Anarchy unchecked means death to any country or city.

Aroused to the meaning of the carelessness, which for generations had permitted the liquor traffic to fill paupers' graves and murderers' rows, to break the hearts of wives and mothers, and to send children handicapped and branded by the drunkard's heritage through life, all America, not contented with mere laws, united and wrote the death sentence of the liquor traffic in the very basic law of our land, the constitution of these United States.

That constitution is our safeguard against anarchy so long as men respect it.

That constitution is our sateguard against anarchy so long as men respect it.

But that constitution cannot endure, it can not protect neither person nor property much longer, if bootleggers, black and white, and worse, those who deal through and with these trafickers in death and murder, are permitted by our carelessness to make a laughing stock of that instrument.

If the gentlemen with a thirst has the right to kick the constitution aside to dead with blind tigers, has not the man with the empty stomach the right to kick the same instrument aside at the invitation strument aside at the invitation strument aside at the invitation strument aside at the invitation of the anarchist and the I. W. W. I. E. Dickey, D. D.; preaching at 11 a. m. Sunday by Rev. J. E.

The judges, who, by merely imposing fines in liquor cases, in effect license the kicking about of our constitution, would do well to ask themselves whether or not such sentences are undermining our country's one great safeguard. A fine imposed in these cases only encourages crime. Moreover, honest officers are discouraged, and the morals of the police are seriously damaged, when officers arfest a blind tiger and see him released upon the payment of a fine, which one or two successful runs of liquor will more than replace in his pocket.

The drunk drivers of the motor car, racing cityward from some joy party, and skidding, overturning, transforming laughing girls and boys into pittable, mangled things of horror to break the hearts of mothers, betoken the presence of more than careless driving amongst us.
